

Indeed - Marketing | Travel Nurses: The Right Match Is About More Than Just Skill

Some L&D nurses are really comfortable doing like two births a month, and then a nurse that is used to 500 births a month. And I would never put her in that hospital that only does 18 births a month. Because she would be like, so bored. So I'm almost like a travel agent slash recruiter slash therapist. And I think any good recruiter is going to have all of those aspects.

It's kind of creepy. I'll be like, I put the hospital in, and I Zoom in around. And I'm like, ooh, there's a margarita bar next door. So I'll call in, and I'll search. And I'm like, ooh, this one didn't have the best review. I don't know if we're going to try this one first.

Being there every day for them, and making sure that I understand where they're at physically, mentally, and emotionally.
