

Indeed - Marketing | Travel Nurses: Motivation and Being Your Own Boss

Remote is, I mean, you are totally on your own. Obviously, I'm supported by an amazing company, but I don't sit next to anybody. I don't have anybody to feed off of and hear how somebody else is talking and saying things and putting out fires. So you are really your own entity, your own boss, your own motivation.

I mean, sometimes it's like, I just want to sleep in, but you have to get up because these nurses need you. Ultimately, being remote, you have to have your head in the game 24/7 because you're also at home, so you feel kind of guilty to not answer a text at 11 o'clock at night. Or, sometimes, I get up at 2 o'clock in the morning and I'll roll over and see it, and I'm like, well, I could get up and figure this out.
